

Trouble-shooting

Foundation engineering and construction is the most difficult and problematic stage of most projects. What lies below the ground is naturally variable, not visible and often unpredictable.

As a result, foundation projects regularly experience difficulties with pile damage, failure or non-compliance.

Foundation QA utilizes its experience in all aspects of foundation design and construction to assist projects by helping the project partners to resolve and overcome problems.